ADM's Floating Multi-Grade contract provides growers with the choice to float their grade spreads above and below APW1. By having another "tool in the kit bag" the Floating Multi-Grade allows the grower to have more control over their physical grain sales based on their view of the market at the time of transfer.

Electing to fix the grade spreads at delivery may result in the price improvement of one grade over another and ensure that the grower receives a market relative spread at harvest.

All terms and conditions on the contract are binding in addition to the floating multi-grade terms and conditions listed below.
